WGC India Gold Market Update: Recovery Taking Shape

Highlights

International and domestic gold prices gained ground in August, partially reversing June's sharp correction after a period of stability in July.

Jewellery demand reportedly strengthened: consumers responded to lower and more stable prices, while retailers and manufacturers replenished inventories ahead of the festive season.

Investment demand remained steady; gold ETFs continue to attract inflows, bar and coin demand held up, albeit softer than the heightened levels seen earlier in the year.

Activity in the futures market picked up in July, lifting trading volumes and turnover.

Gold imports rebounded in July, signalling firmer demand conditions.

Looking ahead

Demand conditions are improving, raising expectations of a stronger festive season. While elevated prices may continue to influence jewellery purchases, investment demand remains supportive.

Following a sharp price correction in June, gold prices stabilised during July before recovering in early August, reaching their highest levels in over two months. International gold price (LBMA Gold PM) rose 9% in the first two weeks of August to US$4,391/oz, while domestic prices gained nearly 7% to INR151,744/10g. The appreciation of the INR against the US dollar partially offset the rise in the international price, limiting gains in domestic prices.

Shifting monetary policy expectations, a weaker US dollar, and renewed inflows into gold ETFs supported gold prices, contributing to the recent recovery in the gold market.

Gold, Silver Retreat On MCX As Rising Yields and Oil Prices Prompt Profit-Taking

Gold and silver prices tumbled on Tuesday as a surging oil market and rising U.S. Treasury yields sparked a round of aggressive profit-taking, briefly sending domestic gold futures below the key threshold of 155,000 rupees per 10 grams on the Multi Commodity Exchange (MCX).

The October gold contract on the MCX slid to an intraday low of 154,925 rupees per 10 grams—down more than 1,000 rupees from its previous close—before paring losses to trade near 155,160 rupees, a drop of 780 rupees, or 0.50%, during the morning session. Silver futures experienced steeper selling pressure, falling by more than 2,600 rupees per kilogram as speculative traders scrambled to lock in recent gains.

The sharp pullback follows a sustained rally that pushed precious metals to multi-session highs. Tuesday's retreat was catalyzed by a spike in crude oil prices, which reignited inflation fears and eroded market expectations for an immediate easing of U.S. monetary policy. Higher yields on U.S. Treasuries added further headwinds, raising the opportunity cost of holding non-yielding assets such as gold.

Despite the abrupt downturn, market observers view the selloff as a routine correction within a broader bull market rather than a fundamental shift in sentiment. Precious metals have delivered double-digit gains over the past year, making periodic profit-taking a standard feature of the market's trajectory.

Gold Prices Cool Down After Relentless Week-Long Surge

After a relentless week-long surge, gold prices finally cooled down across all purities (24k, 22k, and 18k). For jewelry shoppers in Bangalore, Chennai, and other major metros, today's sudden dip opens up a prime window to hit the stores.

Global Dynamics: High-Altitude Chilling

- Spot gold eased just below $4,650 an ounce, though it remains perched comfortably near three-month highs.
- Recent US government bond market interventions reignited the "debasement trade"- the same macroeconomic catalyst behind gold's impressive 65% rally in 2025.
- Today's domestic rate drop reflects a brief global pause rather than a total trend reversal.

Guyana Targets Gold and Jewellery Hub Status By 2030

Flush with capital from its offshore energy boom, Guyana is pivoting toward aggressive downstream diversification, laying out a state-backed roadmap to transform the South American nation into a premier global hub for refined gold and fine jewelry by 2030.

The initiative, conceived by President Irfaan Ali, represents a deliberate push up the commodities value chain. Rather than relying solely on upstream raw mineral extraction, the government is deploying a 15-point structural reform program designed to modernize processing infrastructure, capture higher margins via beneficiation, and broaden its non-oil export base.

Speaking on the Starting Point podcast, Dominic Gaskin, technical consultant to the Ministry of Natural Resources, characterized the framework as a fundamental pivot toward a technology-driven, high-scale manufacturing ecosystem.
The goal, Gaskin noted, is to establish trade equity for Guyanese gold on par with the market footprint achieved by its offshore crude output.

MCX Gold, Silver See Sharp Decline On Surging Crude Oil Prices, Hawkish Fed Reserve

Precious metals experienced a sharp retreat on August 31, 2026, driven by an increasingly hawkish Federal Reserve and surging crude oil prices. In domestic markets, MCX gold plunged by Rs 2,200 (nearly 1.5%) to trade near Rs 1.54 lakh, while MCX silver dropped over Rs 2,400 (around 1%) to hit an intraday low below Rs 2.33 lakh per kilogram. This domestic downturn mirrored steep sell-offs across global spot markets, where gold dropped more than 1% to hover around $4,400 per ounce and silver slipped below the $66 per ounce mark.

Key Drivers Behind the Sell-Off

- Hawkish Fed Signals: Federal Reserve Chair Kevin Warsh signaled persistent inflation concerns during the Jackson Hole summit, emphasizing that financial conditions remain insufficiently restrictive to reach the 2% inflation target.
- Rising Rate Hike Odds: Traders are now pricing in a 57% probability of a 25-basis-point rate hike in September, up from roughly 40% last week.
- Energy & Geopolitical Pressures: US strikes on Iranian rocket launchers near the Strait of Hormuz lifted crude prices, compounding pressure on non-yielding bullion.

Despite the sharp end-of-month pullback, gold remains positioned to close August with a gain of more than 10%, supported by broad-based currency debasement trades.

At the core of the market-access strategy is "El Dorado Reimagined," a centralized sovereign brand administered by the Guyana Gold Board's program management unit. Functioning as a licensing architecture rather than an individual assay hallmark, the intellectual property framework allows qualified domestic jewelers to aggregate under a unified national banner for cross-border market penetration, trade syndication, and sovereign-backed digital marketing.

To address long-standing market frictions- namely consumer trust and opacity in the supply chain- the Ministry is establishing strict regulatory covenants for license holders. Jewelers will face mandatory compliance protocols governing precious metals and gemstone assays across gold, silver, platinum, palladium, and diamonds.

The framework also institutionalizes operational transparency, requiring non-cash point-of-sale integration and itemized transaction reporting. Crucially, the licensing standards prioritize provenance and ESG compliance: participating jewelers must source feedstock through legal and traceable channels, anchored by direct procurement from the Guyana Gold Board.

Policymakers project the supply-side reforms will drive foreign direct investment, workforce upskilling, and net export volumes over a two- to three-year horizon. If executed effectively, Georgetown's strategy could establish a resilient secondary engine of economic growth, turning sovereign mineral wealth into sustainable, high-margin industrial capacity.
